

Resource Allocation and Deployment

Ever increasing demands place a strain on law enforcement resources nationwide. Communities struggle to balance the reality of their fiscal situation against the duty to provide competent protection for their citizens. We know the decisions are ultimately in your hands, our nationally recognized experts can help you make them with confidence.

Frequently Asked Questions:

Is my agency appropriately staffed? No credible consultant will claim there is a universally recognized standard for “appropriate” staffing; however, VTS experts can evaluate your current staffing levels, where you stand in relation to your peers and the historical record of your agency, and most importantly, the effect of proposed changes in staffing on relevant performance indicators such as Obligated Time, Unobligated Time and Response Time. From this information we can help you chart the appropriate course of action for your agency and give you the tools you need to justify your decisions with reasoned data analysis and cold, hard facts. Our experts have experience confronting these issues with all levels of state and municipal law enforcement agencies as well as police labor unions.

How do I deploy existing resources for optimal benefit? Whatever your deployment concerns, we can help. Our experts will study your organization to ensure your deployment strategies are maximizing the efficient and effective delivery of service. We offer top-to-bottom solutions – from the organizational structure of your entire agency down to the individual position level, if necessary. We audit positions, policy, processes and procedures to ensure they are structured to function in a way that enables your organization to achieve its goals. If scheduling is a concern, our experts have experience in both teaching and consulting regarding the use of 8, 10 and 12-hour shifts as well as Fixed, Unstructured, Locked and Unlocked Rotating Schedules. We can evaluate your Beat (Zone or District) Design Structure to ensure it is geographically coherent and balances workload while reducing the rate of cross-beat dispatches. We stand ready to help you make sense of the problems you thought no one could.
